Following the highly successful first of the GLATUC Conferences on fighting austerity held on July 4 at Islington Town Hall, the second conference will be looking at aspects of pay. Again this will be a serious look at how to fight low pay and the Tory policies to drive them down. To look at what can be done at the practical level – looking at the role of councils, other public bodies, campaigns on TIPS, fast food pay and for a proper living wage. It will have those involved in union and community fights with current experience of conducting battles and councillors and others looking for ways to develop local improvements.
